Joadua Historic Site

Joadja Historic Site

Set on the traditional lands of the Gundungurra people, Joadja Historic Site is located in the picturesque Southern Highlands of New South Wales, Australia.

Joadja mining town was established in the late 1870's by the Australian Kerosene Oil and Mineral Co. The site was abandoned in 1911 and is now a NSW Heritage Listed Site of national significance.

The privately owned 718 acre property is nestled amongst tall gum trees, running creek beds, escarpment and bushland within the Joadja Valley, only 90 minutes drive from Sydney, Canberra and Wollongong.

Joadja Town provides a multitude of quaint ceremony and reception sites, natural surrounding backdrops, native tranquil environment and privacy.

We appreciate you considering us as a possible venue and look forward to making your special day truly unique.

Things to Consider

Pre-Ceremony preparations: Whilst part of the bridal party prepares themselves in the Orchard Managers Homestead, the others can share a dram of whisky amongst the towering copper pot stills and barrels at the Distillery.

When planning out your decorations, please think of our surrounding environment and choose sustainable and biodegradable products. With an ample selection of greenery, we can forage decorations on your behalf for a small additional cost.

Wet weather options: You are welcome to make use of the areas under our covered awnings, with another option of utilising Joadja Distillery (numbers depending). If inclement weather is of particular concern to you, we suggest hiring a marquee.

The site also operates Historic Tours and a working distillery. Information on our operating hours are located on our websites www.joadjatown.com.au & joadjadistillery.com.au. For exclusive use of the entire property, charges apply.

The site can also be booked for a pre-wedding or engagement photoshoot.
